BROCKLEY IS ON THE UPTURN

NEW TRANSPORT LINKS HAVE BROUGHT BROCKLEY TO THE ATTENTION OF HOMEBUYERS IN LONDON. 180 BROCKLEY ROAD HAS ARRIVED AT EXACTLY THE RIGHT TIME.

Those who already know SE4 know that it has always had a lot going for it. Although only six miles from central London, it has a distinctive character of its own, with a thriving, engaged community and an arty reputation. Look no further than the authentically 1950s Rivoli Ballroom or the respected Brockley Jack Theatre for proof of the area's individuality.

Highly rated schools, scenic parks and a range of independent shops and restaurants are further reasons why people move to Brockley, and choose to stay.

For those who don't know Brockley, it's all waiting to be discovered, and 180 Brockley Road is a great place to start.

A RETURN TO LOCAL SHOPPING

FOR THE ULTIMATE IN CONVENIENCE, YOU NEED GO NO FURTHER THAN THE GROUND FLOOR OF 180 BROCKLEY ROAD, WHERE YOU CAN RE-STOCK WITH THE ESSENTIALS AT SAINSBURY'S LOCAL.

Most of the neighbourhood shops are clustered around Brockley Cross, opposite 180 Brockley Road. As well as convenience stores, a post office, a DIY supplier, hairdressers and takeaways, there are some more unexpected shops. Gently Elephant, for example, specialises in toys and children's shoes, Magi in unusual gifts and cards. The local deli and food shop scene is flourishing too. Try The Brockley Deli, Brockley Market, Safika or Broca Food Market for special ingredients and local produce.

If you can't find what's on your shopping list in Brockley, nearby Honor Oak, Crofton Park and Ladywell all have large numbers of independent businesses that include butchers, florists and delicatessens.

And when you'd rather shop big-brand style, Lewisham Shopping Centre has Marks & Spencer, BHS, Boots, TK Maxx, H&M, Next and many more. It's about 25 minutes* away by bus.

THERE'S NO SHORTAGE OF RESTAURANTS, PUBS AND COFFEE SHOPS IN SE4, AND MANY OF THEM ARE JUST A SHORT STROLL FROM 180 BROCKLEY ROAD.

The only problem will be deciding where to go. But whatever your appetite and the occasion demands, Brockley will supply.

Some local favourites include highly-rated Turkish food at Meze Mangal; Sardinian specialties and superb ice cream at La Querce; hearty pub food at The Amersham Arms; and seasonal European fare at The Gantry, a tardis-like bar and restaurant with a hidden garden.

You can get your early morning coffee fix at Brown's or Broca, both close to the station. As for pubs and bars, Brockley has an eclectic selection, as the names indicate: Brockley Mess, Jam Circus, The Brockley Barge, LP Bar, Orchard Bar and Kitchen, and Brockley Jack.

BROCKLEY AND THE SURROUNDING AREAS HAVE PLENTY OF PARKS, AND, THANKS TO LIE OF THE LAND, SEVERAL ARE GREEN SPACES WITH VIEWS. YOU CAN ADMIRE CENTRAL LONDON FROM AFAR AS YOU TAKE YOUR DAILY STROLL.

Hilly Fields, aptly named, is close to 180 Brockley Road and from its heights, 175 feet above sea level, you can see from Canary Wharf to the North Downs. The park, awarded Green Flag status, also has tennis courts, cricket and football pitches, plus a café.

Blythe Hill Park and Telegraph Hill Park have magnificent views too, with the latter also featuring ponds, ornamental gardens, tennis and basketball courts.

A DAY RETURN JUST GOT EASIER

THE EXTENSION OF THE OLD EAST LONDON LINE AS THE OVERGROUND MEANS THAT MUCH OF SOUTH EAST LONDON IS NOW INTEGRATED INTO THE CAPITAL'S TRANSPORT NETWORK.

Commuters from Zone 2 Brockley station now have a much wider choice of destinations. You can use National Rail to reach London Bridge in 12 minutes, or East Croydon in 25 minutes. Alternatively, use London Overground and be at Canary Wharf in 9 minutes*, changing at Canada Water. The Overground also has an interchange with the DLR at Shadwell, where you can travel on to Tower Gateway or Bank.

Local buses offer alternative routes for London workers. The 171 runs to Holborn, the 172 to St Paul's and the 343 to City Hall. And don't forget, with ample secure bicycle storage at 180 Brockley Road, travelling on two wheels is always an option.

TURNING GOOD IDEAS INTO GREAT DEVELOPMENTS

A DEVELOPER FINDING THE PERFECT FUSION

In just under four years Shape has built up a portfolio worth an estimated £135 million GDV across London and the South East. Our developments range from 36 large apartments with stunning views at Canford Cliffs in Poole, close to the prestigious Sandbanks, to three highly-specified, multi-million pound townhouses in London's Marylebone. Most recently we were delighted to acquire a site at Long Lane, Southwark, which we envisage will transform into an innovative, horseshoe-shaped setting for 95 apartments close to that spectacular 'vertical city' – The Shard.

The Shape team is a small but experienced one. Our directors between them have decades of experience in high end residential developments and each has personal involvement in the intricacies of perfecting a scheme, down to the selection of fixtures and fittings. Our commitment to excellence in all we do is complemented by the skill of our team of carefully-selected architects and interior designers, together with the expertise of a trusted group of investors.

In the words of Oliver Purday, development director: "A Shape development starts with the location. We're not in the business of building one-size-fits-all standard 'boxes', rather we pride ourselves in finding exciting, up-and-coming settings and creating striking, individual new homes within them. Every one of our schemes begins life as a blank canvas: the design is refined until it suits both the place in which it stands and the people who choose to live there. It's all about finding that perfect fusion of location, specification and purchaser."

180 Brockley Road is a location which embodies the Shape philosophy, and we are proud to have created this contemporary new community within a distinctive part of London.

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE OF LONDON PROPERTY

Founded by charismatic and successful property and technology entrepreneur, Steve Boulton-Brooks, Boulton LDN is the product of his own requirement for an energetic and forward thinking property investment company.

A small yet extremely well-funded organisation, Boulton LDN has the agility to move quickly, combined with solid financial backing, ensuring our developments are built on sound foundations. We have used our strong performance and development expertise in the commercial sector to acquire £150 million of London and South East consented residential schemes, totalling over 170 apartments and houses.

Our extensive knowledge of London and its property market means we are able to select choice locations in the capital and develop schemes that answer the needs and desires of the local population and prospective purchasers.

We are passionate about getting the design and the details right, resulting in developments that are as much about lifestyle as bricks and mortar.

A large part of our success is founded on cultivating quality joint ventures, such as our partnership with Shape, based on years of successful working relationships. We are not just financial investors; we also invest our time and energy in making sure the design and architecture are right for the scheme and the area.

180 Brockley Road is a fine example of Boulton LDN's approach: a prime site in a popular location, close to transport links, and with services and design features specifically tailored to potential homeowners. It is a focus at this level of detail that sets Boulton LDN apart from the competition.

SPECIALISTS IN JOINT VENTURE PROPERTY PARTNERSHIPS

Pevelil Securities is the property development and investment subsidiary within the Bowmer & Kirkland Group. The Bowmer & Kirkland Group is privately owned with a current turnover in excess of £660 million per annum.

Pevelil Securities, based in Derbyshire and led by Ralph Jones, operate nation-wide in all sectors including retail, industrial, commercial, office and residential and have completed many successful developments both directly and through joint ventures. They provide different levels of expertise and financial support through the strength and experience of the Bowmer & Kirkland Group dependent on the requirements of each development. They are keen to build on successful joint developments with partners to nurture long term business relationships.
